WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY ... CALYX 1980

The living room rug of the fraternity house fairly reeked of four-day-old beer and other assorted alcohols. The old shag standard, "The Love I Lost," was blaring away behind the confusion of dancing bodies and grain-soaked party-goers. Melvin, a freshman, sat in the dark corner of the room, his date snoring soundly on his shoulder.

His eyes were failing him. "Gee.. so this is college life," Melvin thought.

As has been the case since 1967, the Washington and Lee football team failed to finish the season above .500. But, under the program of second year Coach Gary Fallon, the Generals did show some improvement, despite going 3-7 in 1979.

Senior Tricaptain Stewart Atkinson was the big story as he rushed for 908 yards to end his career with a school record total of 3072 yards on 752 attempts. Atkinson's running mate, Fullback Lee Minetree, gained 287 yards, averaging nearly five yards a clip.

The General's main problem was putting points on the board. In their first eight games, the Generals scored only nine touchdowns. In their last two games, W&L exploded for seven more.

Where the offense stumbled, the defense excelled. Noseguard Mike Pressler led the team with 70 tackles and was second in assists. More importantly, the Generals started only three seniors on defense. The offense also started only three seniors.

The speciality teams played exceptionally well. Syd Farrar averaged nearly 37 yards a punt, including one of 56 yards. Freshman Bill Devine tried kicking barefoot style and made six of seven field goal attempts, including one of 40 yards. Devine also made 11 of 12 PATs.

With the return of sixteen starters and a large amount of recruits arriving, the 1980's could be a decade of winning football at Washington and Lee.

The 1979 Washington and Lee soccer team had a final record of 5-7-1. Under the leadership of Rolf Piranian, O.D.A.C. Coach of the Year, the Generals finished second in the league with a 3-1 record.

The Booters had offensive problems all year long, but a strong defense kept W&L in almost every game. Kevin Carney had 69 saves in nine games while his replacement, Freshman Rody Halcomb, played eight games in goal, allowed only five goals, stopped 64 shots and recorded five shutouts.

Mark Turner, a junior, was the team's leading scorer with four goals and two assists. Ben Muskin, Bryan Williams and Bill Brown were the Generals' other leading scorers with two goals a piece.

Part of the reason for the Booters' losing record was a tough schedule. Of W&L's 13 opponents, four were ranked in the NCAA Middle Atlantic top fifteen. One of these teams, Lynchburg, was the O.D.A.C. champ.

The future does look bright for the soccer team, however, as the Generals return their top three goalies and each of their top five scorers from 1979.

Led by a strong corps of runners, the 1979 Washington and Lee Cross-Country team was able to post an impressive 9-5 record. This marked the 21st time in 28 years that cross-country Coach Dick Miller's Harriers have finished over .500.

Leading the team was Captain Rich Bird, who finished his four-year career at W&L as one of the school's all-time top performers. Backing up Bird were several other runners whose high placings in meets gave the Generals good overall depth.

Sophomore Greg Branam showed perhaps the best improvement of all the runners as he became a strong No. 2 finisher. The team was also helped by two freshmen, John Kelafant and Walter Anasovitch. Also providing strong running were Charles Warner and Fred Caudell.

The Generals were strongest in dual meet competition, where they posted a 2-0 record. One of these wins was a 22-33 conquest of rival Hampden-Sydney. W&L also ended the season on a positive note as they finished fourth in the O.D.A.C. Championship Race. In that race, Bird placed first among his teammates with a 15th place finish.

WATER POLO

Under the guidance of first year coach Page Remillard, the Washington & Lee water polo team reached new heights. The 1979 water polo Generals ended the year with a record of 20 wins and 7 losses while establishing themselves as one of the leading water polo powers in the South.

One of the reasons for this year's advancement was a pair of seniors — Drew Pillsbury and Biff Martin — who were the leading scorers in a strong Generals' offense. W&L's offense was also balanced by a stingy defense.

Among the water polo squad's accomplishments include a first place finish in the W&L Invitational Tournament and a second place finish in the Southern League Championships. The second place finish qualified the Generals for an appearance in the NCAA Eastern Regionals. W&L lost twice in the tourney but ended the year by dumping arch-rival Richmond, 14-7.

The fact that W&L is playing — and beating — the big powers in water polo is proof enough that the sport has become an established winner. In 1979, the Washington & Lee water polo team proved it could play with the best of teams.

Coached for the 17th straight year by Verne Canfield, the Washington & Lee basketball team saw its record slip to 14-15 in the 1979-80 season. But despite finishing only fourth in the ODAC regular season, the Generals captured the postseason conference tournament, qualifying for their third NCAA playoff appearance in four years.

Leading the Generals was a host of returning players, including captain Tom Jeffries, who was selected to the all-conference team. Two other returners who gave strong performances all season long were Rob Smitherman and R.J. Scaggs, a pair of juniors.

A key factor in the team's late-season surge was the improvement of several young players, including George Sprears, Clark New and Travis Patterson, all sophomores. Brian Hanson, a freshman, moved into the starting lineup late in the season.

The Generals posted a 4-2 record in their first six games, but the loss of the team's leading scorer and floor leader resulted in the team's suffering losing streak four games, eliminating it from the title race. The Generals were able to rebound, however, winning seven of their last ten games, including three straight in the ODAC Tourney.

WRESTLING

Coached for the seventh consecutive year by Gary Franke, the Washington & Lee wrestling team finished with a record of three wins and eight losses in dual meet competition and finished second in the ODAC. The Generals suffered their first sub-.500 year in six seasons.

Two seniors, Captain Ray Gross and Ed Rodgers, led the team in honors. Gross held a 10-1 record, was ODAC Wrestler of the Year, and went to the NCAA Division III wrestling tournament. Rodgers compiled a 5-3 record and was a conference champion in his weight class.

Other leading wrestlers included Les Heart, a junior and an ODAC champion, Joe Wallace, a runner-up in ODAC heavyweight competition, and Mike Deighan, a senior who was third in the conference in his weight class.

The Generals finished second in the ODAC in regular season competition and also finished second in the post-season tournament. This marks the second straight year W&L has occupied the runner-up position.

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY
LEXINGTON, VIRGINIA
OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

To the Class of 1980:

Just yesterday, it seems, I wrote a message like this to the Class of 1970, taking profound note of the fact that I was addressing the first graduates of a new decade. I'll resist here any temptation to draw global parallels between this tumultuous time and that tumultuous time, other than to say that things were bad then, they're bad now, and there have been a lot of bad times in between.

For Washington and Lee, the 1970's was a remarkable decade, and the four years you have spent here were remarkable years in the progress of our institution. You've endured much inconvenience, but you've also enjoyed the first use of facilities like the new library and Lewis Hall which have evolved so handsomely from our disruption and dislocations. And I believe you've seen the quality of academic life grow stronger during your student generation. You've been here at a good time, an interesting and important time in this University's long history.

I am certain that this yearbook will document your final year here in ways that will help you remember the joy of living and learning in this truly distinctive collegiate environment. For me, like so many others who teach and work here, the CALYX is a welcome window that looks on past student generations, helping bring into focus the sometimes subtle shifts in student lifestyles and values. It is a book that all of us can enjoy now and treasure forever.

Whatever the 1980's may hold in store for you and for Washington and Lee, we can confront these uncertainties with confidence, vigor, and strength. You've been good for Washington and Lee, and I know Washington and Lee has been good for you.

FANCY DRESS

Despite my 30 years of research into the feminine soul, I have not been able to answer . . . the great question that has never been answered: What does a woman want?

SPRING

BASEBALL

Having been coached for two years by Chuck Kroll, the Washington & Lee baseball program continued to improve in 1980. As of this writing, the Generals were in a position to qualify in the ODAC Tournament for the first time.

The Generals were a squad that had a combination of youth and experience. The team captain and one of the leading hitters, Thad Ellis, was only a sophomore. The pitching staff was loaded with veterans, including seniors Chip Child, Vic Shepard and By Steele.

The rest of the W&L pitching staff was extremely young, showing promise in the future. A freshman, Joel Weston, posted some early wins, while two sophomores, Rich Hachenburg and Mark MacGlaughlan, were top relievers and spot starters.

TENNIS

In its second year under Coach Gary Franke, the Washington & Lee tennis team continued to enjoy its usual success against other Division III teams. The Generals have finished in the top-five in Division III play in the past three seasons.

One reason for W&L's success is the play of co-captain Stewart Jackson, a three-time All-American. Jackson played in the top singles position, ahead of fellow captains Dave Constine and Pat Norris.

The team was a balance of veterans and young players. Constine, Norris and Jackson were all seniors, while five other underclassmen competed for positions on the team.

Two juniors, Pete Lovell and Doug Gaker, played in the singles positions, while a pair of freshmen, Jackson Sharman and Steve Denny, also played singles.

TRACK

Coached for the 11th consecutive year by Norris Aldridge, the 1980 Washington & Lee track team ran this spring with its usual strong and deep squad.

Leading the team was a trio of seniors, Stewart Atkinson, Rich Bird and Paul Hendry, who served as the squad's tri-captains. Atkinson was one of W&L's leading sprinters, Bird was a top distance man and Hendry was the team's leading high jumper.

Backing up these three was a strong corps of letterman, including Chris Daniel in distance events, Jeff Brown and Billy Morris in sprints, R.J. Scaggs in the 440 and Jim Vines in the hurdles. The weight events were manned by Buz Manning, Chip Nunley and Chico Shaver.

Two sophomores, Russ Rector and Dave Cordell, were the team's leading long jumpers, while Bob Campbell, a senior, was W&L's pole vaulter.

In indoor track competition, the Generals finished fourth in the ODAC. Bird managed a third place finish in the mile run, Daniel was second in the 880-yard run and Manning was second in the shot put competition.

SWIMMING

Under the leadership of first-year coach Page Remillard, the 1980 Washington & Lee swimming team went through the first year of its rebuilding program. Though the Generals compiled a 1-10 record, the groundwork was laid for future success.

The most pleasant surprise this year was the performance of sophomore Mike Bernot. Bernot was the earliest General to qualify for the NCAA Nationals and was likewise the only W&L swimmer to be named as an All-American.

Other standout swimmers included team captain Bob Newcomb in the 50 and 100 free events and sophomore Herb Gresens, who swam in the 100 free event. A lack of team depth hurt the Generals in many meets, however.

With a promising group of underclassmen and a good amount of recruits, W&L may soon be back at the top of collegiate swimming. For next year, the Generals should have almost a dozen new swimmers to support the returners.

As of this writing, the 1980 Washington & Lee lacrosse team was enjoying one of the most successful years of any in the school's history. Coached for the eighth straight year by Jack Emmer, the Generals had been ranked as high as second in the nation among Division I teams.

Co-captains Bob Clements and John Hooper were key factors to their team's success. Clements, an All-American goalie, was ranked second in the nation in save percentage, while Hooper was the team's leading face-off man.

Much of the team's success can be attributed to its incredible depth. With quality second and third-string men at each position, W&L posted a more balanced scoring attack.

Leading the offense were Rob Staugaitis, a sophomore who was a leader in assists, Chris Kearney, a goal-scoring threat making his first appearance after a two-year lay-off, and Jay Foster, a four year letterman.

The Generals were exceptionally deep at the midfielder position, with the scoring of John Kemp and the ball-handling of George Santos and Geoff Brent. Roman Kupecky and Hooper provided muscle and strong defense.

The defense corps was led by three returning starters, Steve Johnson, Jim Herbert and Don Rigger. Bill Benson and Dave Nickels provided relief off the bench.

In the goal, Clements was outstanding again, making key saves game after game. Clements was again one of the top stoppers in the nation, limiting the powerful Syracuse team to only five goals, for example.

GOLF

Under the guidance of sixth-year coach Buck Leslie, the 1980 Washington & Lee golf team aimed to defend its ODAC title and qualify for the Division III NCAA tournament for the fourth straight time.

The golfers were led by senior and captain Gerry Barousse, a 1979 All-American and the defending ODAC titlist. Supporting Barousse was fellow senior Tom Wall and a cast of underclassmen.

Two sophomores, Jim Kaplan and Bill Alfano, were strong finishers for the Generals. Also providing strong play were a junior, Steve Everett, a sophomore, Titus Harris, and three freshmen, Lee Nichols, Dick Vedder and Bert Ponder.

All of this added up to a young squad for the Generals which, on paper, did not seem as strong as the recent W&L golf squads which placed seventh and 11th in the nation.

John Warner, John N. Dalton, Edward H. Brown, W. Henson Moore, Barry M. Goldwater, Robert E.R. Huntley, Charles F. Phillips, William E. Brock, III, Craig Cornett, Dick Schoenfeld, Sid Simmons and a cast of thousands.

IN MEMORIAM

Hiland Newton Moore, January 27, 1959 — October 23, 1979.

Charles William Pacy, Jr., August 17, 1957 — September 13, 1976.

It's difficult to sit before the keyboard of a Smith-Corona and write in a decisive manner about all that has happened to the Class of 1980 in the past four (and in some cases, five) years. At a casual glance — which is the best one can do at this point, I guess — the whole affair is somewhat of a blur. I feel that while I have learned something invaluable, I can't quite put my finger on it. The courses of study, the friends, the parties and all the rest that Washington and Lee represents comes to bear on the maturity and the capability of the student. Maybe it is simply the "total experience" (God, I hate that expression) of college that molds and shapes the person. Or, what is more likely, I am completely wrong. In any event, I have a notion that things won't become any clearer until sometime after graduation.

This is your yearbook. The entire year (or a close approximation) is packed into 300 pages and wrapped in a light brown cover. It is unique (I guess) that this is the first book of the new and unfamiliar decade. There is a lot going on right at this point in time, and there is little assurance that it is going to get any better. In times like this, maybe what we need is the advice of Walt Kelly, when he said that when everyone seems to be yelling and hollering in the dark, "Some of us just might learn to whistle."

the Editors*

To mock the expectation of the world,
To frustrate prophecies, and rase out
Rotten opinion, who hath writ me down
After my seeing. The tide of blood in me
Hath proudly floe'd in vanity till now;
Now doth it turn and ebb back to the sea,
Where it shall mingle with the state of floods,
And flow hence forth in formal majesty.
